Call to Worship

Reader: Mike Valdez

Psalm 148

One: Praise God from the heavens; praise God in the heights!

Many: Praise God, sun and moon; praise God, all you shining stars!

One: Praise God, you highest heavens, and you waters above the heavens!

Many: Let them praise the name of God, for God commanded and they were created.

One: Praise God from the earth, you sea monsters and all deeps;

Many: Snow and frost, mountains and hills, fruit trees and cedars, praise God!

One: Beast of the forest and all cattle, crawling things and flying birds!

Many: Young men and women alike, old and young together!

One: God has raised up a horn for the people with praise for all who are close to God.

Many: Let us praise the name of God, whose glory is above earth and heaven.
Amen.

*Opening Hymn,

Make Me a Channel of Your Peace

(Green Gather Hymnal No.726)

(Find Music at the end of this program)

Unison Prayer

God of Love, you are the thread that weaves together the fabric of all human life and connects everything in the universe. Today, I affirm that I, too, am love. Love is the essence and purpose of my very being. Help me, O God, to use the power of love in my everyday life. Help me to look at the world through the eyes of love and focus on the good in each person and situation I encounter. If I cannot find the good, I lean on my faith on You and trust that the omnipresent power of love is always present, even when I can't see it. I turn to You and connect with the presence of love within me. Love is the essence of who I am, and I am able to call upon the power of love in every moment. Thank you, O God of Love. Amen.

Assurance of Grace and Peace

One: Peace be with you.

Many: And also with you.

One: Let us offer one another a sign of Peace.

*Passing the Peace Draw the Circle Wide

Draw the circle wide.

Draw it wider still.

Let this be our song, no one stands alone, standing side by side,

Draw the circle wide.

(repeat after verse)

Words of Integration & Guidance

by Rev. Thomas Shepherd

In today's Gospel message, Jesus refers to his disciples as "servants" and commands them to "love one another." This is an important and revealing passage from Jesus' great final discourse in the Gospel of John, delivered on the eve of his arrest and crucifixion. As with so much of the Gospel of John, it's important to be clear about exactly who is speaking, and to whom. If Jesus of Nazareth is speaking to the men and women who have been following him as his disciples, the statement is very strange. They are not his servants, for example, nor has he ever treated them as such. They are his students, colleagues and friends—to suggest that they were ever servants is condescending at best. Clarity comes when we realize that Jesus is speaking throughout this discourse from his Christ consciousness—he is speaking as Jesus Christ, the full expression of divine Presence and Power. The entire purpose of his ministry was to teach and demonstrate the Christ—not as an attribute unique to him, but as the Presence of God that is the true identity of each of us. He calls us to embrace our own Christ nature, to continue the work of creating the kingdom that he has begun. Our relationship to the Christ within us changes dramatically as we become aware of its truth and its presence within us. It is always the truth of who we are, even when we don't know it or acknowledge it. God is always seeking to express through us, no matter how unaware we may be. We are servants of that Power, doing its bidding without often understanding the great, divine creative process at work. When we do become aware of it, though, we can fully participate in the creation of the kingdom of heaven. It is by consciously cooperating with the Christ that we become co-creators of the kingdom.
